

What is a METRO DISTRICT?

est. 1953

Metro districts are becoming more common in real estate development. In Colorado, there are now more than 1,800 metro districts, a 70% increase over the last decade. Here's how they work:

FUNDING HOUSING PROJECTS

Bonds pay for infrastructure and are repaid by additional homeowner property taxes over time.

ESSENTIAL INFRASTRUCTURE

Metro districts are required to fund at least two infrastructure essentials like roads, water, sewer, recreational facilities and open space access.

LOWER DOWN PAYMENTS

Because the municipality pays for the initial infrastructure, homes become more affordable for buyers by giving them the opportunity for a lower down payment.

THERE ARE BOTH PROS AND CONS TO THE USE OF METRO DISTRICTS.

Review an infographic with highlights from a recent independent report on metro districts in Colorado and their impact on home buyers and sellers.
<https://ires-net.com/what-is-a-metro-district>